

clutter busters

1 Start with Claire's clever cart

To easily manage a cookout's worth of supplies, Claire Robinson, host of 5 Ingredient Fix, brings out her handy assistant: a tiered cart. With its sturdy steel construction and three levels of storage, this commercial-quality rolling island is just like what the pros use—without the gourmet price tag.

One to try: Seville Classics Industrial All-Purpose Utility Cart, $58, from amazon.com.

2 Flip for Sunny's no-cost food covers

Pests stay far away from Cooking for Real host Sunny Anderson's grill station when she does a flip—with colanders, that is. This somersault turns the kitchen helpers into a "no fly" zone. Plus, the small perforations allow steam to escape so nothing gets soggy.

One to try: Zak Designs 24-Ounce Small Colander, $8, and 3-Quart Large Colander, $13, both from amazon.com.

Set the stage for Grilling