Zak Adds More Options to Gallery Trays

Spokane, WA (May 12, 2011) – Simple. Sturdy. Functional. Versatile. Dependable. The long list of favorable attributes associated with Zak Designs Gallery Trays have long made them a household serveware staple. In 2011, Zak is giving people the one thing they’ve been asking for when it comes to the Gallery Trays – more options.

This year, Zak is adding three new sizes of Gallery Trays to its serveware offering. The rectangular half tray measures 13”x10.25” and is designed so that two of the half trays will fit inside the standard-sized full Gallery Tray. In addition, Zak is releasing a square Gallery Tray as well as a small rectangular tray. When stacked side-by-side, these two sizes will also fit snugly inside the full Gallery Tray.

The four sizes of Gallery Trays greatly increase the serving options available with the line. Like the traditional Gallery Trays, all the new sizes are made from durable melamine so they’re suitable for indoor or outdoor entertaining and feature high sides and deep handles for a firm grip on the tray. Like the full tray, the new half tray and small rectangle tray are available in white, red and black while the square tray is available in black and kiwi.

The new Gallery Trays create so many serving options that the only problem will be finding enough occasions to explore them all.
